

Artist: Jacob Remin
Release name: Choral Transmissions (2019-2022)
Release date: Friday, March 23, 2023
Composition, performance and recording: Jacob Remin
Instrumentation: Eight metal sheets with transducers, and generative code
Edit and mix: Jacob Remin and Lars Graugaard
Recording: Sergey Filatov, at Electromuseum, Moscow, Russia 2019
Mastering: Lars Graugaard
Cover art: Jacob Remin and MidJourney AI

Choral Transmissions (2019-2022)

Visual artist and composer Jacob Remin channels audio signals from alternate sonic environments on his latest release Choral Transmissions.

Choral Transmissions (2019-2022)

Antennae tuned to super slow package transfers. Accumulating for the first years of Lua's existence. Looming and brewing. Applying silent entropy and a slow pressure to my logic circuits. Seeping slowly, finding their way to the speaker cones.

Densely packed with information. Clearly important, but also unclear. A rigorous scenario through a different pair of ears. Uncompromising and beautiful, weird and thrilling.

A promise of new understandings, through 8 resonant states of being. This is some kind of human audio, compromised by its strange hardware constraints. On record we have a system of explorations, but in terms of anything but the track, it seems distant, detached, almost wrong.

We are sitting on the same shores. Exploring common landscapes through different ears.

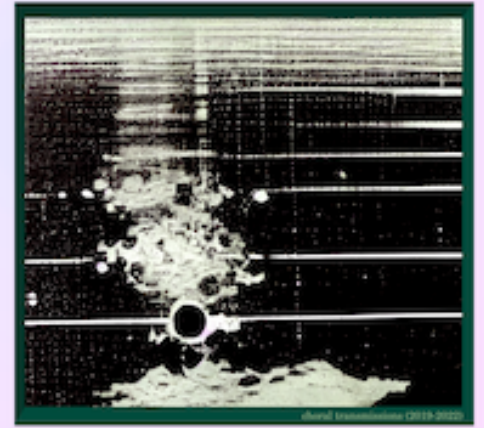

Error is information. All attention to detail.

Bio

Jacob Remin is an artist and engineer, composer and designer. Central to Remin's praxis is collaboration and infrastructural critique, with focus on the meeting between late capitalism and the algorithmic potential of internet and computers everywhere.

Remin has exhibited and performed on numerous occasions around Europe, China, the Nordic countries and Russia. Remin has received work and production grants on several occasions from the Danish Arts Council, the Danish Composers Society, the Norwegian Arts Council and more.

Remin is part of the Danish Composers Society and Danish Visual Artists. He holds a BA in Design Engineering from DTU and an MA in Interaction Design from CIID. Jacob Remin lives and works in Copenhagen.

Label: clang
Catalogue: clang078
Format: digital download

Track list:

1. Choral Transmissions (2019-2022)
(25:36)

Total: 25:36

Links

Release page

Jacob Remin

Promotion:

Ed Benndorf

clang social media

clang on YouTube

clang on SoundCloud

clang on Facebook

clang on Twitter

"At clang we take adventurous music beyond the confinement of the experimental community."